Dear Cory:

Everyone at the diocese is delighted and heartened by the ways in which our young adult outreach efforts have been simplified and enhanced by the Listen Technologies equipment. Looking back, we wish we could have discovered this technology years ago!

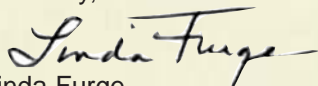

Because much of our outreach includes young adults who are primarily Spanish speaking, real-time English-to-Spanish interpretation is very important to us. And with anywhere from 100-300 young adults in attendance at our annual retreat, dependable, high-quality sound is critical. Unfortunately, before learning of Listen Technologies, we not only incurred the expense of an out-sourced service, but we also had the added time and labor constraints of a rather involved setup and tear-down at each event. This included onsite technicians, a sound booth and console for interpreters (requiring them to be stationed within the booth at all times), headsets, and speakers. No small feat.

Now our process is wonderfully simplified, thanks to an easy-to-use, completely portable, integrated system from Listen Technologies. The sound quality is excellent, and our interpreters are happy about no longer being cloistered in a sound booth. They like the lightweight comfort of the small, body-pack transmitters and head-worn microphones, and how the receivers' small earpieces are easy to clean. But most of all, they are pleased with the exceptional sound quality and ease of use.

The system's small, portable components are easily stored and transported (the storage cases are great!) and the adjustable volume controls on attendees' receivers enable interpreters to speak as softly as necessary throughout the proceedings. As far as they are concerned, Listen Technologies has blessed us with a small miracle.

As word spreads among our diocesan offices, I know more and more of them will ask to use our Listen Technologies equipment. With our Spanish-speaking communities growing, Listen Technologies has provided greater outreach at conferences, retreats and other diocesan events, thanks to the exceptional sound quality, ease of use and portability of your systems. We are very grateful.

Sincerely,

Linda Furge
